"Let reverence for laws be breathed by every American mother to the lisping babe that rattles on her lap; let it be taught in schools, in seminaries and colleges; let it be written in primers, spelling books and almanacs; let it be preached from the pulpit, proclaimed in legislative halls, and enforced in courts of justice. And in short, let it become the political religion of the nation; and let the old and the young, the rich and the poor, the grave and the gay of all sexes and tongues and colors and conditions, sacrifice unceasingly upon its altars."

Mexico—oh, shucks!

Many a fellow leads the van in life and winds up at the tail end in death.

Life is never so sweet but what a little taffy gives it a better flavor.

Modesty is a jewel—but, like most jewels, in this day it is hard to find.

Good advice: People who never look before they leap should refrain from leaping.

Put your words, as well as your money, out at interest. A courteous word to your neighbor today may bring you two tomorrow.

Sometimes we stop and wonder if we really have a national election on tap and only a few days off. But let us hope it makes up in quality what it lacks in noise.

Troops are going down to the border, and troops are coming back from the border, and troops are remaining on the border, and we'd like to know what it all means, anyway. Now wouldn't you?

A public speaker has the temerity to remark that it is time for qualifications and not barrels to control our national and State elections. Put him out! But, on second thought, hanged if he ain't right.

The dear Chicago Tribune says: "Mr. Hughes will speak five times through Nebraska today." Gosh! That's about as marvelous a feat as laying down law to an irate wife through a locked door.

We want everybody to vote at this election. It's your duty to vote. The public weal requires that you vote. Your own interests urge you to vote.

P. S.—Vote right by voting our way.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE.

Any community, town or country, is warranted in taking supreme interest in its young people. You may talk about your mercantile and banking interests; your mills and other manufacturing enterprises; your stocks and bonds; farms and crops and blooded stock as much as you please. They may be allright in their place, and doubtless are, but the biggest asset in the world is the human beings in it. They are the body, life and soul of every activity of life. The higher their thoughts are the larger their accomplishments; the nobler their thought the better their living. The quality of the life is a process of education—direction and training—and the earlier it is begun and the more perseveringly it is enforced the more noble and efficient does it become. The greatest factor, therefore, in the life of any community, is its boys and girls; and the future of the community may be reckoned according as interest is taken in child life. Nurtured and trained with care and affection it has its possibility of reaching its highest pinnacle; treated with indifference or neglect it is almost certainly foredoomed to prodigal wastefulness of its higher powers. And the community profits or suffers proportionately as it takes interest in its child life, because its welfare is conditioned upon its interest in the life of the beings who constitute its human activities. Many present evils could be very greatly minimized, if not totally eliminated, in a community by the exercise of proper care over the children. They are forced to see and hear many things that should not be allowed to cross their young lives; and are permitted many privileges which they should not be allowed to have. Too much care cannot be bestowed by a community upon its young people. Give the boys and girls the right kind of a fair chance and the community will never have cause to regret it.—Kershaw Era.

THE NEIGHBORHOOD MEDDLER.

Most neighborhoods have her. She is the most noticeable feature of the landscape. She is always on the job. It matters not that the job is self-assumed, she never sleeps on it. She is frequently the widow of some man whom the community held in high esteem. In a moment of fatal weakness he annexed her to his life, and very soon that life became worthless to him and he was glad to lay it down.

Since worrying him to his grave, her ambition seems to be to send him plenty of company for fear he may become lonesome, deprived as he is of her presence.

Nothing is begun, carried on or completed without her meddling interference. She knows the full family history of every man, woman and child for miles around, and if an ill-timed breath of scandal is needed to forever wither and destroy a promising career, she furnishes it with glee.

Having long since parted with any youthful charms she may have once possessed, the possession of attractiveness in the young people seems to fill her withered heart with gall. The boys of the community are all trifling and vicious, the girls weak and silly. Their mothers and fathers are no better, and really one cannot imagine what the world is coming to.

No affair of community or private life is too big or too little for her meddling tongue to dip into. She annoys us, but we tolerate her. She nags us, but we bear it. At times she almost drives us crazy, but we endure it.

And there is no remedy, no recourse—

Yes, there is one. Dr. Ossler suggested it, and was frowned out of court. But, honestly, when contemplating the tyrannical rule of this neighborhood meddler we sometimes wonder if the world was not too severe on the Doctor.

THE RESPONSIBILITY.

In the approaching general election it is possible that a number of persons will refuse to vote the straight Democratic ticket from president and governor to coroner, which they are pledged to do. If that should be the event where would the responsibility for such a repudiation of the primary rest?

If there have been any party leaders who have openly or silently assented to threats of repudiation of the primary and have thereby directly or by implication encouraged it, upon them will rest the responsibility.

The preservation of the Democratic party and the Democratic primary is the business of party leaders. It is for them to defend the party from aspersion if they purpose to lay claim to future leadership and to ask for party rewards.

For more than a month open discussion and advocacy of party desertion in the coming election, as to certain of the more important offices, federal and State, has appeared in newspapers. Has it been rebuffed? Has it been silenced?

Party integrity can not be trifled with. If a party is to live and retain its strength, the leaders who can be relied upon, through success and through defeat, to stand by it are entitled to its confidence and to its honors.

The opportunity to serve the Democratic party in South Carolina by throttling incipient rebellion against it has been offered during the last 30 days and the opportunity passed weeks ago. To denounce party rebellion is safe now, of course.—The State.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

- Question No. 1 Are you satisfied with what you are paying for your groceries?
- Question No. 2 Do you think that you are getting your money's worth?
- Question No. 3 If a firm or a person should tell you that they could save you money what would you think?
- Question No. 4 Why are you trading where you are now?
- Answer To No. 1 No! Nobody is because every thing is high---higher---highest.
- Answer To No. 2 You think so, but you are not quite sure. Visit our store and you will know what you think is true.
- Answer To No. 3 You would think that, as a matter of course, he would be obliged to say that.
- Answer To No. 4 Because, as a matter of fact, you don't hardly know ---you think of course that so and so is such a nice polite fellow and then too he always sells YOU just a little cheaper than any body else.

Four Reasons why we sell cheaper than any body. We don't have to pay a book keeper. We sell absolutely for cash. We don't lose any bad accounts. We sell more with the same amount of clerks now than if we were charging. Now think it over and see if you are not convinced that a firm who sell more goods with the same clerks and don't lose any bad accounts shouldn't sell cheaper than the firm who has the extra expense of a book-keeper, loses bad accounts and can't possibly sell as much. SAVED FROM DEATH

BY FRIEND'S DARING

Charles Purcell Rescued by Earle Harris After Falling in Neal Shoals Waters.

Union, Oct. 25.—Earle Harris, son of W. D. Harris, plunged into 30 feet of water and saved Charles Purcell from drowning at Neal Shoals last Saturday. Both young men are with the engineering corps working at Neal Shoals. Young Purcell while crossing the dam slipped and fell below the dam into a deep pool of water and Harris seeing his friend's plight jumped in to save him. Both came near drowning but the rescuer after seeing his friend managed to swim until he caught a rock ledge and they were hauled up by ropes quickly brought by the workmen.
